AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

BRINGTHED, Mass., 20th Dec. *55.
Dr. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for coughs, hoarseness, influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a cold, is your Cherry. Pectoral.

Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints.

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs and Hourse

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it to be the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Brother Ayer: I will cheerfully certify your Pector al is the best remedy for the cure of Wacoping Cough, Oroup and the chest disease of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

AMOS LEE, Monterey, Ia., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious influence, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally wried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the screness in my throat and lungs; less than one-half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Sir: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now caring a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last 40 years. A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., Albion, Monroe County, Iowa, writes Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most co vincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its CONSUMPTION.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which ured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

Astro House, N. Y. City, March 5, 1856.

Dector Ayer, Lowell: I feel it a duty and pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours, with gratitude and regard.

Consumptives, do not despair until you have tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Phila. Ledger. Prepared by Dr. J. O. In the same beautiful village resided two maidens fair, plump, brighteyed, cherry-cheeked, rosy-liped maidens, (poetic license,) with warm, tender, susceptible hearts, and all the simple artlessness and child-like confidence of sweet sixteen, (or twenty-six, we forget which.) That affections warm as their scould remain dormant forever—that they should "waste their sweetness on the desertair"—was of For Bargains 'waste their sweetness on the desert air' course impossible. ing romantic history of a marriage which it publishes:

"I'welve years ago the bride was a young lady of twenty, the daughter of a wealthy merchant in Washington, Ps. In her father's employ was a young man named Robert—, who, the young lady being bewitchingly beautiful, as in duty bound, fell desperately in love with her. She reciprocated the attachment, and they were betrothed. Unfortunately the young lady's father entered his protest against this pleasant arrangement, and accordingly the young couple put off the haipy day indefinitely. About a year afterwards she received a most tempting proposal, which, urged by her father, she accepted, and to the eternal despair of poor Robert, was married. But alse for the poor bridegroom! Scarcely three months had elapsed when a kick from a vicious horse killed him. Robert consoled the widow and determined at the end of a year or two to marry her. He had too much respect for her to press her. He had too much respect for her to press his suit immediately, and did not for fifteen months, when he proposed. To his horror, she informed him that she was already engaged, and that in three months more her second marriage would be consummated.

Two years passed. In the meantime the widow and her husband removed to Syracuse, N. York, and Robert, possessed by some strange hallucina-tion, followed them. That season the cholera swept that city, and among its victims was the second husband. Robert allowed a year to pass, and was on the point of urging his claims, when he received an invitation to her wedding! She was married to her late husband's partner.—
Robert remonstrated. The lady assured him that her present step was not one of love, but purely of necessity. The partnership affairs of her late lamented husband were in such a state that settlement was impossible, and to save immense losses she had determined upon marrying the sur-viving partner. She assured him, also, that her ried, and in a short time removed with the third husband perished, and she escaped only through ned to be on board. This friend was young, unmarried, and his gallantry inspired such senti-ments in the breast of the widow that she mar-ried him before Robert had time to claim her.— When he learned the state of affairs, he was some what indignant, but she told him the circumstan ces and managed to satisfy him with the promi ed to Pittsburg, where the husband went into mercantile business on Liberty street—residing, however, in Alleghany City. Robert followed them, and finding employment, determined to watch the chances closely. One day he was passing the store of Mr. ——, when he saw a terrible corpse upon the floor. A cask of rice which was being hoisted had fallen and killed him instantly. He inquired if any one had been sent to acquain they ran until they reached the Hand street told the heart rending news, and obtained a sol-emn pledge from the widow before the clerk arseverance will accomplish.

topol company has proved a failure, and that the sunken ships can never be raised, is an error. Whatever the difficulties in removing these obstructions-and the difficulties have been greatly exaggerated—the Russian Government is deter mined that they shall be overcome; and as it is prepared to remunerate the contractors adequately whatever the cost, success is only a question of time. As yet the machines considered necessary for the undertaking have not been completed; and hence the delay. Yankee ingenuity, without a doubt, will triumph over all obstacles in this case, as it has triumphed over so many others before.
If the ships cannot be raised whole, they will be aised in pieces. No matter what the expen the Russian Government is resolved to have the harbor cleared, and that within the next three years; for, in spite of the Anglo-French alliance and the treaty of Paris, it has never abandoned its designs on Constantinople, and never will.

In fact, it is even now secretly preparing to swoop down upon that coveted capital, whenever a fitting chance occurs. It is offering to persons doned, but, on the contrary, is still entertained. The chances are also that the next attempt will be more successful than the last. It is difficult, indeed, to comprehend why Russia did not pounce on its prey immediately after the Menschikoff mission, and before the Anglo-French fleet had time to come up from Malta and Toulon; for with the armed ships then at Sebastopol and other ports in the Black Sea, Constantinople might have been taken almost without firing a shot. The next time there will be no such mist. The next time there will be no such misshot. The next time there will be no such mis-take, or forbearance, call it whichever you will. Russia will imitate Napoleon, and will imitate the lion, and will, leap upon its victim with but one premonitory roar. The public sentiment of man-kind, meantime, is becoming, right or wrong, more reconciled to the absorption of this great capital by the Czars. Many even, who cannot see how it is to benefit civilization, admit that it is inevitable. Perhaps, they add, whatever is in-evitable will prove, in the long run, right. The destinies of the United States and Russia seem, in one point, to resemble each other: for both in one point, to resemble each other; for both appear destined to continual accessions of territory, which, let us hope, will be for the good of mankind.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Municipal Election. An important election for the interests of dianapolis occurs to-day. Its voters are called upon to select its executive officers and one half the members of the City Council. The Democratic candidates for these offices are faithful and capable, and in every respect worthy of public confidence. The progress and prosperity of the city will be subserved in their election. Is the Rev. Mr. Breckinridge a Tip-pler! A debate has arisen between the Rev. T. L. Breckinridge, of Lafayette, Ind., and Mr. William Smith, a wholesale liquor dealer, of the same swoop down upon that coveted capital, whenever a fitting chance occurs. It is offering to persons who will settle at Sebastopol house lots free, and building stone on the same terms, provided they take it from the ruins of the destroyed forts; in tending, by this process, not only to rebuild the city, but to clear the way for a re-construction of the fortifications. It is secretly building, all along the Black Sea coast, new hulks of men-of-war, which may be launched at a few months notice, but which are kept at present on the stocks, in order not to violate the treaty of Paris. It is adroitly introducing steamers, capable of carrying each a gun or two, into the Euxine, on pretence of trading to Constantinople. It is sending, almost monthly, detatchments from the Constradt fleet through the Bosphorus, and many of these ships never return. Everything indicates that the tramonthly, detatchments from the Constract fleet through the Bosphorus, and many of these ships never return. Everything indicates that the traditional policy of Russia, its century and-a-halfologing for Constantinople, has not been abandoned, but, on the contrary, is still entertained.

The chances are also that the part attempt ment, and drank not very temperately whenever he could do so unobserved, and that he seldom paid for his liquor. It may not be improper to remark that what-ever is the true state of the case, the published version of Mr. Breckinridge displays much bad temper, and a earlessness with regard to the King's English, which shows that its writer labored under some species of excitement.—Cin.

Gazette. Sruageou and the Lady.—A witty literary lady, well known in London, was traveling the other day in a railway carriage. The only other occupant of the compartment in which she was seated was a fat, vulgar young man, with a white neckcloth (soiled), sleek hair, prominent teeth, and a self-satisfied air. The individual contrived and a self-satisfied air. The individual contrived very adroitly to make the conversation turn upon the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon. The dialogue soon became exceedingly warm and animated, the lady expressing the utmost aversion for the preacher in question, as an illiterate mountebank, and the gentleman extolling him to the seventh heavens as the most glorious man of the age, and the Demosthenes of the pulpit.

On arriving at the station where the lady's journey terminated, the gentleman said:

Under this heading, the Richmond Whig advo-Under this heading, the Richmond Whig advocates in an elaborate article the organization of a new political party, to take the place of what it is pleased to term the "corrupt factions" now in existence. Its arguments, although quite extended, scarcely have evidence of an intelligent understanding of the phases and tendencies of political party. The property of the phase are considered to the series of political party, the property of the phase are considered to the office and would fill it with honor, and charity demands that he should have it.

In the first place, the Whig jumps to the conclusion that "the Democratic party has not the clusion that "the Democratic party has not the slightest chance of electing its candidates at the An Honest Convession.—The Madison Courier man, in a recent editorial article, made one truthful remark, the correctness of which will be generally admitted. It is a forcible illustration of the sentiment—"a little learning is a dangerous thing." The editor says: struggle required to place Mr. Buchanan in the Presidential chair in 1856, when, as it professes to believe, the Republicans had far less strength than they possess at present. The Whig assumes that Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Illinois, which voted for Buchanan in 1856, will certainty, which voted for Buchanan in 1996, will certainty, and that Maryland will probably, go against the Democratic candidate in 1860.

If these calculations are correct—if the case is clear that Republicanism is going to sweep the country in 1860—it is difficult to discover any ood cause for the anxiety which the leaders of that party manifest for a "re-construction of par-ties," or the nervousness manifested by the Whig and its friends in desiring to so give direction to political affairs as to secure the defeat of the only party which can oppose any powerful opposition—the Republican party, which the Whig professe to hold in much contempt. But the Whig should bear in mind that the prospects of the Democracy in 1855 and '56 were even less encouraging than at the present moment, and especially should it be cautious in assuming that the new States of Oreon and Minnesota are to be counted with the op-

The joke of the proposition of the Whig consists in the fact that while that sheet professes to deprecate the success of the Republican party, and would consider the prevalence of its pringles a public calamity, it gives in its adhesion plan, which if it has any practical significance, is intended to simply extend the sphere of the Republican party, to nationalize it, just so far as is necessary to catch such politicians as those represented to the the little process. necessary to catch such politicians as those represented by the Whig, and turn their services to account in electing Mr. Seward, or some other Republican, to the Presidency in 1860. It is idle to talk of any other "reconstruction" than this. The Democratic party has a national existence and a mission of its own, and its members are not and a mission of its own, and its members are not going to unite, to any great extent, in a movement tending only to benefit their enemies.—
Whatever changes may take place in the modification and reconstruction of parties in the next two years, it may set down as certain that the Democratic party as such, and substantially on its present basis and platform of principle, will be one of the two great organizations contesting for supremacy in the Government. Precisely what will be the name or the platform of the other, (for there can be only two of any great importance.)

supremacy in the Government. Precisely what will be the name or the platform of the other, (for there can be only two of any great importance,) it would, at the present moment, be difficult to predict with any degree of precision.

This tendency to "reconstruction," is a sort of political necessity which manifests itself periodically among the opposition to the Democratic party. The fever is just now raging fearfully at the North, but is painfully protracted by the uncertainty which at this moment hangs over the fate of the Kansas question. Northern politicians have for several weeks been acciously exercised on the subject, and from the moment of Gov. Seward's avowal of a truce against slavery in the United States Senate, the contracting parties have been exerting their best diplomacy in perfecting the scheme which is to bring into the field a party in 1860 powerful enough to cope with the Democracy, with a fair prospect of success. While in this section of the Union the contracting parties have their argument chiefly on the necessity of defeating the Democratic candidate for President—at the South, if we are to take the language of ## Lagonda Agricultural Works. New York Hand Raking Reaper.

New York Hand Raking Reaper.

THE above Reapers have been used for several years;
have cut at least two million acres of grain; have been over all sorts of land, among all sorts of obstractions, and in all conditions of Grain, we and dry, green and ripe, straight, fallen and tangled. No Agricultural Implement has ever met with such universal success, nor given such universal satisfaction as the NEW YORK REAPER. The poculiar advantages in these Reapers consists in let, The position of the Raker, who stands upon the Platform, facing his work. 2d, The position of the tongue, avoiding all dearing the drawls and Sickle, avoiding choking. 4th, The position of the Cutter Bar, nearly in a line between the Driving Wheel and Grain-Wheel, doing away any difficulty in turning or backing. 5th, The gearing is placed in a cast Iron Box, called a combination box, in which it is family hung, avoiding any difficulty from the shrinking or swelling of the wood. This importance is to the durability of the machine, in proof of which we would state that out of the very large number we have sold, we have nover been called upon to supply any part of the gearing which has worn out, though some machines have cut over 1,000 acres of grain. 6th, It will cut equally well with a fast or slow motion. The The Driving-Wheel and Grain-Wheel are high; making it easy draught for two hores. 3th, The machine is easy to handle and durable. 5th, It can be let down to the shortest grain, or raised to cut twelve inches high, the change being made in a few minutes. By careful driving a swath swan rain rear can be averaged through the day.

For further proof of the working capacity, durability and workmanship of the Reapers, we refer to ALL was naver TORCHARD OR DEAPER. Incoming this there are no such competent judges at an agricultural implement as the farmers themselves who use them.

We are taking the greatest pains in the selection of materials and in the workmanship, and confidency when them.

Glorious Meeting of the Democracy Last Night! The Court House last night, notwithstanding he inclemency of the weather, was crowded with staunch, true and tried Democratic voters. The music of the fife and drum (Keeley's Band being on hand) and the thunders of a Dem eratic canon, called the multitude together. On motion, Lieutenant Governor HAMMONI was called to the chair; on taking which he day.

The eloquent gentleman, one of the foremosi rators in the Union, and known as an eminent statesman throughout it, although talking only of ocal affairs, convinced, without doubt, many Republicans present that their plain duty was to go to the polls to-day and vote the Democratic ticket. Democrats needed no such convincing arguments, although, by what he said, they were made strong. was a most miserable failure; nary voter being on er and stronger in their political faith. Always hand. longent, always in earnest, always thoroughly formed, Gov. Willard rivets the attention of any audience from his first word till his last -Proud will be the Democracy of the State and of the nation to honor him hereafter.

Colonel May succeeded Governor Willard He made a most capital speech. The assembled logic and his forcible appeals, acknowedged the staunch and able member of their party, one whom they had confided in in times past, one whom they confided in now, and one whom they would confide in on all future occasions.

Col. May, in reply to an interruption by some one who insisted that he had declared that he would never vote for a "Lecompton man." said: "If I have so declared I take it all back now. will vote for any regularly nominated Democrat, Lecompton or anti-Lecompton." The Journal, of yesterday, lies upon the Hon. Wm. B. Beach, with reference to his speech on Friday evening last, at the Fifth Ward meeting. Whatever severe language Mr. Beach used was applied to Black Republican leaders, falsely to the Journal. Its principal editor, cent performance. Jones, is too lazy to go about, and therefore, perforce, believes everything anybody tells him. Honest, generous, noble Republicans, we will tell the Journal in order that it may have news for suffrage breed in the party. They have the pride and the spunk of white men about them, and will demonstrate it to-day, or we are mistaken.
